

2009 CARIBBEAN WEEK IN NEW YORK JUNE 8TH - 12TH

Calling all Caribbean Suppliers!

By popular demand, the Caribbean Fair, a consumer element of Caribbean Week in New York will return to Bowling Green Park, New York City on Wednesday, June 10, 2009.

The Caribbean Tourism Development Company has engaged various media to help spread the word about the color, culture and unique vacation experiences that the Caribbean has to offer. Normally, over 10,000 visitors pass through the Caribbean Fair, but the event is seen in millions of households in the United States - the Caribbean's major tourism source market - and the Caribbean, via the internet and television.

This is your last chance to register to participate in the Caribbean Fair. To associate your brand with that of the Caribbean and to capitalize on the audience that will be on hand specifically for information on the Caribbean, please take a moment now to complete the participation form for the Caribbean Fair found at: <http://www.onecaribbean.org/eventsandcalendars/conferences/cweekfair.aspx>, and submit it by Friday, April 10, 2009.

For more information on Caribbean Week, please log on to www.onecaribbean.org, click on the Caribbean Week in New York logo for a menu of other activities that will take place during Caribbean Week, in which you may wish to have a presence.

We look forward to your participation.

Caribbean Tourism Development Company

P.S. If you have already submitted your participation form, we thank you.
